The reasons why we should obey our parents are many. The first of them is that it was our parents who brought us to this wonderful world and took care of us when we were helpless in our infancy. They brought us up with the greatest affection. When in our boyhood we fell ill, it was our parents who nursed us till recovering with all the warmth and affection of their heart. We can easily understand that in case they were cruel, we could not have survived the tortures of illness and misfortunes that befell us during the days of our helpless childhood.

Young Narendra Nath had a leaning towards saintly life from his very boyhood. In his quest for Truth, he had met the greatest Hindu reformers of the day, such as Maharshi Debendra Nath Tagore and Keshab Chandra Sen. It was in the course of his search for a suitable guru that he met Sri Ramkrishna, who holds a respected place in the long line of the world's most enlightened souls. As soon as the Master saw young Naren, he recognized in him a 'Dhyana - Siddha' and at once began the long arduous process of preparing Narendra Nath for his future role.
